The Shielding Suit: The Gift For Someone Who Has it All

Clothing manufacturers have been using silver in athletic gear for years. Why? Our workout sweat is food for bacteria that is found on our bodies. These meals generate that after-gym smell. But silver ions stop the bacteria from reproducing and keep that smell at bay.

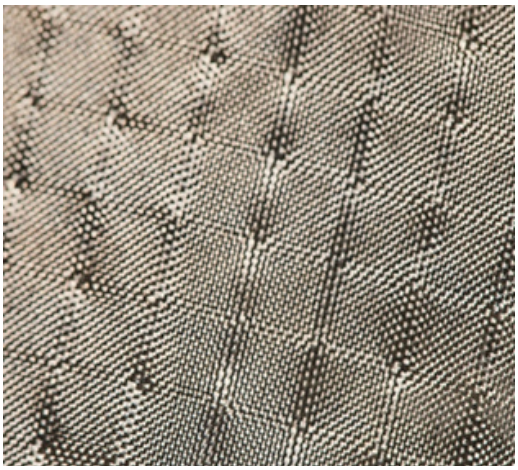

Source: Lululemon. Their smell protector is called Silverescent

A futuristic German clothing company is leveraging much more than silver's antibacterial attributes in its bid to create clothing useful for climate change and even interstellar travel.

Shielding Jacket and Pants. Source: Vollebak

Vollebak's "Shielding Suit" blocks electromagnetic radiation. The outer shell is embedded with pure silver that blocks radio waves and microwaves, including WiFi, Bluetooth, Ku-band satellites and radar systems. It deflects mid and long wave infrared radiation so it can't be seen on infrared cameras.

Fabric embedded with pure silver Source: Vollebak

Store devices in the “Faraday cage” pockets to prevent remote access.

Source: Vollebak

If money is no object, preorder the Shielding Jacket for $3,295 and the Shielding Pants for $1,995 for your partner who is otherwise impossible to shop for. Learn more about silver in the Shielding Suit at https://vollebak.com/

The February 2025 Silver News carried a story about Vollebak.

Jennifer Ropiak is a precious metals market specialist with over 30 years’ experience, including twenty in trading (15 at Morgan Stanley). She is the founding director of Trusted Partner Metals - an independent consultancy whose clients typically are keen to increase their footprint in precious metals. Currently, Jennifer is advising the World Gold Council on their initiative to increase retail gold demand globally. Jennifer is a Chartered Alternative Investment Analyst and a graduate of Cornell University.

The information contained in this article is for educational and informational purposes only. The information is not intended as, and shall not be understood or construed as, financial advice, investment advice, legal advice, or other professional advice. The information is not a substitute for professional advice, and we strongly encourage you to contact a financial advisor if you have any questions about purchasing or selling bullion. Any reliance that you place on information provided is strictly at your own risk. We disclaim all liability and responsibility arising from any reliance placed on such information by you or by anyone who may be informed of any of its contents.